APPLICATION FOR ENGL 8100
DIRECTED STUDY

ENGL 8100 – Directed Study is a course designed for specialized research for doctoral and advanced master's students. The course should be designed in conjunction with an instructor, and the subject matter and/or critical approach should be in that instructor's area of specialization. The Director of Graduate Studies must approve all 8100 applications. ENGL 8100 can be used to satisfy program area requirements.

Pleased be advised: Students in the MA programs will be limited to ONE Directed Study (8100); students in the MFA and PhD programs will be limited to TWO Directed Study courses. Under special circumstances, doctoral students may petition the graduate committee to take a third Directed Study, but under no circumstances may any student take four.
*Please list previously taken 8100 courses here:

In addition, all students who wish to take a Directed Reading course must submit the 8100 application to the Director of Graduate Studies the semester prior to the semester in which the course is to be taken. No 8100 application will be otherwise accepted or approved.

Date of application_____   Semester/year for 8100_____

Student name_____   Panther ID#_____

Student email address _____

Course Description (list of authors and/or works to be studied)_____

_____

_____

_____

Written Outcome (include expected length of papers, bib, reviews, etc.)_____

_____

_____

Student Signature_____   Date_____

Faculty Member Signature_____   Date_____

Faculty Member Name, Printed _____

Graduate Director Signature_____   Date_____